Renting a Car in the USA

When selecting a rental vehicle, take into consideration where you will be travelling, how many people will be travelling in the vehicle, luggage size and the kind of driving you intend to do. DriveAway Holidays offers a vast range of vehicles from small economy sizes to larger full-sized cars, 4WDs, convertibles and luxury vehicles. The ACRISS system on page 4 will help you find a car that suits your needs. This is internationally recognised code which will ensure you get the same standard of vehicle wherever you rent.

Automatic and Manual Transmissions

Most rental companies only hire automatic cars, so you will have a huge selection of automatics to choose from at the time of booking.

Do I need a Credit card?

All suppliers in the USA will require a credit card imprint at the time of collection and some suppliers will freeze an amount from US$100. Cash deposits are on request with some car rental companies, but credit cards are preferred. Check with DriveAway Holidays to verify the relevant deposit requirements.

Collecting at an Airport in The USA

At most American airports you will find your rental company has a desk in the arrivals hall, with the rental cars being located within walking distance. However, at smaller airports you may be required to collect your vehicle from a downtown depot. A courtesy transfer will be provided from the airport to the depot in this instance. DriveAway Holidays offer all-inclusive prices which generally include any location / airport fees and charges that may otherwise apply. Remember to check at time of booking to ensure your rental will include all airport fees.

Can I collect my rental car in one American city and drop it off in another American city?

Yes, but you may incur a one-way drop off fee, which depends on the mileage between cities and may often have restrictions on the number of days for the hire, however travelling between some states may not incur a one-way fee, e.g. generally there's no drop off fee for travel between California and Nevada. Make sure you are advised of these additional fees with DriveAway Holidays before you travel.

Rental Vehicle Insurance

American law requires all vehicles to have compulsory third party (CTP) injury insurance, although your car rental supplier should already have comprehensive insurance covering their cars. In the case of an accident it must be reported to the insurance provider immediately and an excess will be due.

Car Rental Companies in the USA will normally include:

- Third Party Insurance: Compulsory insurance and will be included in your car hire price. This covers you for other people's injury and damage to their vehicle.
- Collision Damage Waiver (CDW): This limits your financial liability for damage to the rented vehicle and is normally included in prepaid car hire prices. Rentals are normally subject to zero excess in the US (with the exception of selected vehicles in New York), however this will be clarified with you at the time of booking with DriveAway Holidays. If an excess is applicable, you can cover this by taking out DriveAway Hire Car Excess Insurance - simply ask for more details.
- Theft and Loss Cover: This limits your financial liability for the loss or theft of the rented vehicle and is generally included in the prepaid car rental price.
- Fire and Liability: Limits your financial liability for bodily injury or death, and is normally included in the prepaid car hire price.
- Personal Accident Insurance: This covers the driver for personal injuries and is generally not included in your car rental rate. It is considered an optional extra that you can take out upon collection of the car.

Driving In The USA

- When you collect your car rental, familiarise yourself with the car and its controls.
- Cars drive on the right hand side of the road, and you drive from the left hand side of the car.
- Always wear a seat belt and use child safety seats where necessary.
- Be aware of the driving laws where you're driving – laws will vary from state to state.
- Research the road signs before you travel for better understanding.
- Get a good map or a GPS with the appropriate SD card.
- Carry your licence with you at all times when you are driving.
- Avoid driving in major cities (e.g. New York) where traffic can be heavy and parking hard to find.
- Some inner city areas can be tourist crime traps, so be aware of these areas to avoid.
- Most petrol or gasoline stations require you to pay before you fill up. You may also be required to give a local postcode when you pay by credit card, if so you will need to speak to the station attendant before you pay – make sure to check all options before filling up.

Driving Laws In The USA

Although most of the road rules are the same, each state in the USA has its own set of driving laws. When you collect your car rental, make sure you check with the depot if there are specific rules that you need to observe. Here are some of the basic rules that will apply across the country:

- The max speed limit on interstate highways in most states is now 65mph (110 km/hr), 25mph on cities and towns and 15mph in school zones.
- It is illegal to pass a school bus that has stopped to unload passengers; all vehicles must wait for the bus to move back into the flow of traffic.
- Almost all states require drivers and front seat passengers to wear a seat belt, whilst most states require children to wear seat belts no matter where they are seated in the car.
- Motorcyclists are required to wear helmets in the majority of states.
- Don't litter: If you throw rubbish from the window of your vehicle you can be fined up to US$1000.
- As a general rule, on major roadways in the US, the leftmost lanes are considered to be the fast lanes, while the right lanes are considered to be slow lanes.
- You must stop for pedestrians on a crosswalk
- In most areas, traffic that is already on a roundabout has the right of way.
- Drinking alcohol and driving is forbidden and is strictly enforced in every state. It is a crime to drive with a blood alcohol limit of 0.08 or above, so be smart: don't drink and drive!

Parking

Parking in most cities and towns in the USA isn't usually a problem. In some towns there'll be restrictions on street parking that will be clearly signposted and other illegal parking spots such as across entrances, in front of fire or ambulance stations, or within 3m of a fire hydrant.

Parking metres are common in most towns and cities, and are monitored by city police and private companies, so make sure you do park legally or take the risk of a fine, wheel clamping or even being towed. If in doubt, park your car in private or municipal car parks that are provided in most towns.

Licence Requirements

A full driving licence is required to drive in the USA. All drivers must have held a full valid driving licence for a minimum of one year. Australian residents are not required by law to have an international drivers licence, although it is recommended since an international licence holds more credibility with the local traffic police than your home driving licence. Contact your local motoring association for further information.

Min & Max Age Requirements

Min Driving Age: Usually 21; however with some suppliers the minimum age is 25.

Young Driver's Surcharge: Drivers aged 21-25 years may be charged from USD15+tax per day.

Max Driving Age: The majority of locations in the USA do not have a maximum driving age, however there may be restrictions for drivers aged 70-75 in some regions. In some cases, aged drivers may be required to hold a letter from their GP stating they are healthy and fit to drive. Check with the supplier for further details.

Cross Border Fees and One Way Rentals

I'd like to pick up my car in USA, visit Canada, then return to the USA. Is this possible?

Yes - make sure that you advise your car rental company at the time of booking as an additional insurance is sometimes required, depending on the pick up depot and the supplier. Please note that a one-way rental between US and Canada will incur a one-way drop off fee.

How about travel Mexico?

Some car rental vehicles may be driven into Mexico, and travel is usually only permitted into the Free Trade zone, about 13-25 miles into Mexico. Restrictions and additional insurances will apply. Not all suppliers permit travel to Mexico and must be requested at the time of booking. Cars collected in the USA cannot be dropped off in Mexico. Check with your car rental supplier before travelling to Mexico.

Can I travel into Alaska?

Most suppliers will permit travel into Alaska but restrictions will sometimes apply. Drivers may stay on paved roads or the insurance will become void. Check with your rental supplier before travelling into Alaska.

Red Desert, Wyoming

Child Safety

Child Car Safety Seat Laws vary from state to state, but here are some of the CSS laws in popular states:

California: Children must be in an appropriate child seat or restraint until they are at least 6 years old or weigh at least 60lbs. If the child weighs more than 40lbs they can use a seat belt in the rear of the car without a booster seat. For children 60lbs and over must wear a seat belt.

New York: Children 3 years and younger must be seated in an approved child restraint. 4 to 15 year olds must be restrained with either a child or an adult seat belt.

Florida: Children 3 years and younger must be seated in an approved child restraint. 4 to 5 year olds can be restrained in an adult seat belt if a child restraint is not available. Children aged 6 and over must wear a seatbelt.

Hawaii: Children aged 3 and younger must be in a child restraint. Children aged 4-17 must wear a seatbelt.

Alaska: Children 3 years and younger must be seated in an approved child restraint. 4 to 5 year olds must be restrained with either a child or an adult seat belt. Children aged 6 and over must wear a seatbelt when travelling in the front seat. Contact DriveAway Holidays for exact details of the Child Safety Seat laws that apply to the states in which you will be driving in.

Road tolls & e tags

A toll road is a privately built road, often known as a tollway or turnpike. As with most things in the USA, the toll system varies across the country from state to state. There are more tollways in the eastern half of the US than in the western half, however its best to use a good map or GPS, where most of the tollways are marked with a distinct green stripe.

The cost of tolls varies, so when travelling in states where toll roads are prevalent carry some spare change or ask your car hire supplier for information on electronic toll collection.

California

California is located on the West Coast and is the third largest state by land in America. It's the ultimate destination for all ages, offering a wide range of attractions and activities including Disneyland, Hollywood, Yosemite National Park, Malibu Beach and the Golden Gate Bridge, to name but a few. The best way to discover the diversity of California is to travel by road and explore its vibrant cities, sleepy fishing villages, premier wine regions and the tranquil wilderness.

Self-Drive Tours around California

Los Angeles to Palm Springs

Palm Springs is a glamorous resort style oasis in the California desert and offers hiking, modern architecture, spectacular natural beauty and a host of outdoor activities. For the ultimate weekend getaway take the Interstate 10 East, towards Phoenix. Once you notice the lavish homes, golf courses and palm trees you can be sure you have arrived in Palm Springs.

The trip is approximately 190km east of Los Angeles and is located towards the top of the Colorado Desert. From most Southern California destinations, Palm Springs is about a two hour drive, depending on traffic.

San Francisco to Napa Valley

What better way to spend the day than living the life of luxury in the Napa Valley! From San Francisco the drive is approximately 90 minutes, however if you are planning to travel during rush hour, perhaps allow an extra hour. The most scenic route to take is via the famous Golden Gate Bridge, north bound and the picturesque surroundings you will detour are reminiscent of a drive through European countryside. Stay on Highway 101 for about 40 miles until you reach Petaluma in southern Sonoma. Take the highway 116 turnoff and merge left on Frates Road. Continue to follow the signs for approximately 23 miles until you reach the Napa Valley.

Huntington Beach

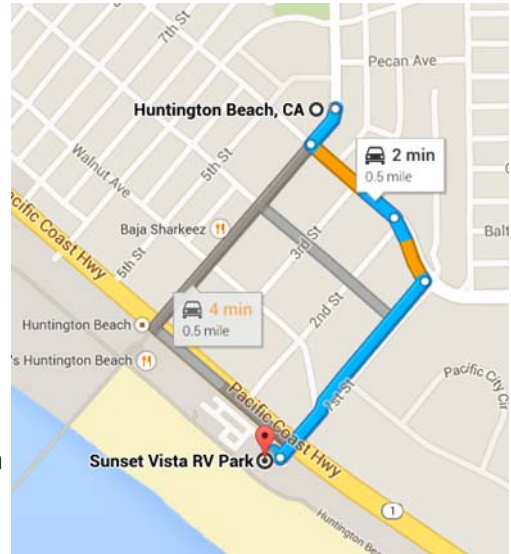

RV camping in Huntington Beach recalls the days when surfers slept right on the beach and woke up to the sound of waves. Surf City USA offers two year-round and one seasonal RV campground, making it one of the best beach RV campground locations in the state. Bolsa Chica State Beach offers year-round RV camping in its beach parking lot north of the Huntington Beach Pier. Located across from the Bolsa Chica Ecological Reserve, this campground is the perfect spot for surf fishing.

Huntington By the Sea RV Resort also offers year-round RV camping just across the street from the beach - and has amenities including a clubhouse with television, pool and game tables, and a swimming pool.

Sunset Vista RV Campground is available October through May each year and is located in the beach parking lot just south of the Huntington Beach Pier. Within walking distance of downtown Huntington Beach, it's in the perfect location for a Southern California beach vacation.

Reservations at each campground go quickly. We recommend booking as early as possible, especially for summer months.

Please note there is no tent camping in Huntington Beach. The closest beach tent camping site is at Doheny State Beach in Dana Point, California.

New England

New England is located in the northeastern corner of the United States, comprising the modern states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. Bounded by the Atlantic Ocean, Canada and New York State, New England offers immense diversity. There are mountainous terrains with hiking and skiing trails, quaint seaside villages, hotel resorts and spas to help you relax and unwind, stretches of serene beaches, scenic driving tours and a rich cultural history waiting for you to explore!

Connecticut Wine Trail

If you are a wine enthusiast be sure to explore the Connecticut Wine Trail which boasts some of the best wineries in the United States. The route is geographically divided into two sections, the East and West and altogether there are nineteen vineyards for you to visit. Each winery welcomes guests, but be sure to allow a couple of weekends to visit all the wineries and experience the unique qualities each has to offer.

Connecticut Wine Country

At your first stop, pick up the Passport to Connecticut's Wine Trail which features the name and address of each Vineyard, their hours of operation and phone numbers.

Route 100, Green Mountain National Forest

Route 100 is one of the most scenic routes in New England that pilots through the Green Mountain National Forest of Vermont. The drive begins at the Canadian border and comes to an end where Vermont meets up with the Massachusetts borders. The Green Mountain National Forest trails the backbone of Vermont north from the Massachusetts border for 100 miles, all the way to the Appalachian Gap. Along your trip, route 100 offers plenty to see and do. Visit the Ben and Jerry's Ice Cream Factory in Waterbury, the Moss Glen Falls in Granville, or the Vermont Country Store in Weston.

The best time to view the unsurpassed scenery route 100 has to offer is during autumn, the 'foliage season'. However take into consideration that the popularity of the route often attracts many visitors, particularly during the foliage season.

Self-Drive Tours around the West

Frontier Pathways Old West Tour

Discover America's true Old West. On this route you can visit museums, restored nineteenth century buildings, magnificent national parks and historic ghost towns. Begin the tour at Pueblo in Colorado, where you can visit the El Pueblo Museum and learn of American Indian, Mexican and American cultures. Travel on to Wetmore to visit the site of early settlement built over 150 years ago by French traders and poor American farmers.

Further on you'll discover the ghost town of Rosita in the currently named Silver Cliff, which was a boom town in 1875. Enjoy the views of the Crista Mountains along the way. Visit the town of Rye, and the home of Bishop Castle, which was built by hand by one man, a wheel barrow and a shovel. Finish your drive on the shores of Lake Isabel, where you can go boating, fishing or picnicking.

Beartooth Highway

This is one of northern America's most spectacular roads, winding its way through the rugged, magnificent country of Montana and Wyoming. Start your drive at the border of the Custer National Forest in Montana, and head through Custer, Shoshone and Gallatin National Forests to the entrance of the Yellowstone National Park.

Along the way, enjoy the wonderful glaciers, alpine meadows and spectacular mountain ranges. In summer you can hike across the Rocky Mountains, go horse riding, fish in pristine streams, and in winter enjoy cross country or downhill skiing and snowboarding in the slopes of Red Lodge, Montana.

The South

The south includes Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. From the countryside of Alabama to the beaches of Miami, the south offers something for everyone. Not to mention the region's unique cultural history and events which has lead to the South developing a culture rich with literature, music and cuisine unlike anywhere else in the world. No trip to America would be complete without a visit to the south!

Self-Drive Tours around the South

St. Augustine to Daytona Beach, Florida

St. Augustine is located on the east coast of Florida in a region known as the First Coast which extends from Amelia Island to Jacksonville and Palm Coast. To reach Daytona, stay on the A1A south to reach the 'ultimate beach town', Daytona Beach. The drive is approximately an hour, depending on traffic and you will find numerous things to do along the way.

There are several state parks, recreation areas, stunning beaches and several restaurants. On arrival in Daytona, you will find a magnitude of things to do. Visit some of Florida's best beaches or enjoy the excitement of motor sports and speedways, and with accommodation facilities galore, be sure to stay for the weekend!

U.S. Highway 68

Highway 68, known as the 'scenic highway' takes drivers throughout Kentucky between Lexington and Maysville and runs for approximately 560 miles (900km). The majority of the route is surrounded by forests, mountainous terrain and abundant wildlife. Don't be surprised if you encounter a cougar, fox, cardinal or snakes along 68. Also be observant of any 'deer signs' as collusions are not uncommon. Native flora such as Sugar Maple Oak and variations of Pine are also plentiful.

The highway passes through several counties and along the way you are sure to find antique shopping, quaint villages, horse farms and, evidently, miraculous vistas.

Route 66

One of the most famous highways in the US, Route 66 stretches from Chicago to Los Angeles. Built in 1926, it became the main route for migrants seeking a better life in California. The historical route has now been replaced with modern highways but the townships have preserved the heritage of historical Route 66.

After exploring the windy city of Chicago and Lake Michigan, begin your journey through the farmland of Illinois and onto St Louis, Missouri. From the Mississippi River, Route 66 will take you through Oklahoma City, where the migrant convoys in the 1930's, once began. Stop off at Oklahoma Museum which tells the story of this historical journey.

Travel through the region of the Cheyenne and Arapao Indians, where they once hunted bison; and onto Amarillo Texas, home to cowboys and oil fields. Stop off at the infamous Cadillac Ranch where you will find 10 tail-finned cadillacs buried nose first into the sand! Continue to New Mexico through the hunting lands of the Comanche Indians and onto Albuquerque.

At Albuquerque, take a ride on the aerial tramway to the top of the Sandian Mountains. The city is world famous for its hot air balloon festival in October. Travelling onto Santa Fe, taking the famous Tortoise Trail through the small artist-mountain communities. Built in 1610, visit the oldest government building in the US, Palace of the Governors.

The Grand Canyon, Arizona

Drive onto Holbrook, the Petrified Forest National Park, then through Navajo Indian Country toward the Grand Canyon National Park where you can take a helicopter flight or a hike and experience its vast majestic scenery. Stop off at Flagstaff and try your hand star-gazing at the Lowell Observatory.

Journey onto Las Vegas, otherwise known as Sin City - the entertainment capital of the world! Here you may choose to visit the Red Rock Canyon or take a flight over the West Rim of the Grand Canyon. Highlights include the Skywalk, shopping and, of course, the nightlife Vegas is renowned for.

From Las Vegas, head west through the Mojave Desert, stopping at the ghost town of Calico. Finally, Route 66 concludes at Santa Monica, Los Angeles - The City of Angels, where you can take a leisurely stroll along the boardwalk and marvel at the alternative culture along Venice Beach!

Cadillac Ranch, Amarillo, TX

Self-Drive Tours around Alaska

Anchorage to Denali National Park

The drive to Denali National Park from Anchorage is approximately 5 hours without breaks however be sure to allow time to stop and admire the spectacular scenery. From Anchorage, follow the Glenn Highway northbound and then continue on the Parks Highway towards Denali National Park. Once on the Glenn Highway, consider stopping at the Alaska Native Heritage Centre or the Eklunta Indian Village.

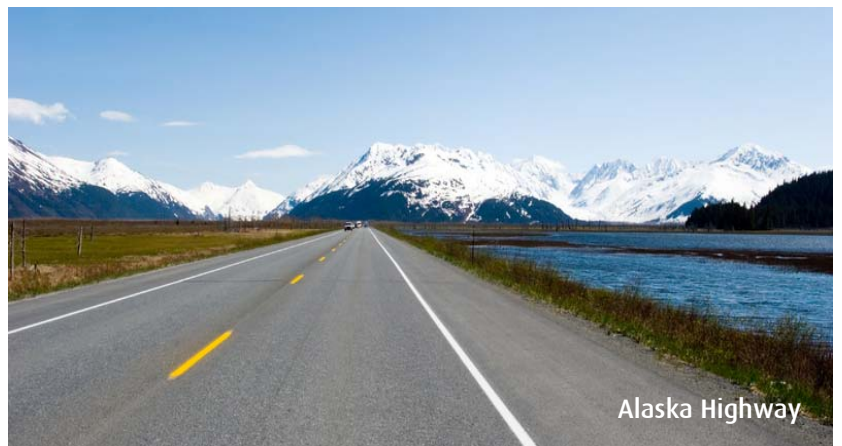

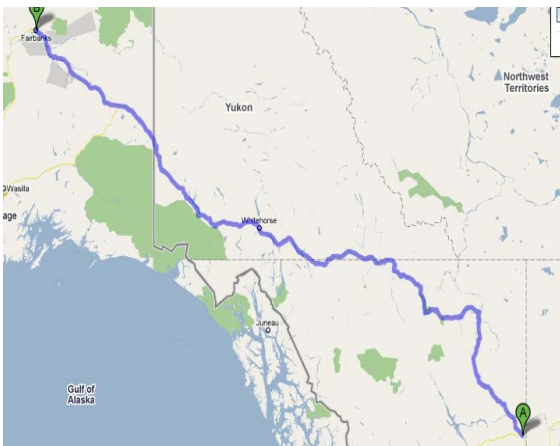

If time permits, take a short detour to the small gold mining community Talkeetna, or continue on to the National Park. Once you have arrived, options are endless. For the adventurous consider river rafting or take a jeep safari trip.

The Alaska Highway

The famous Alaska Highway begins in Dawson Creek, in north-eastern British Columbia, connects to Canada's Yukon Territory and then to Alaska. The main destination for motorists on the Alaska Highway is Fairbanks, which is approximately 1,488 miles from Dawson Creek and many tourists and even locals choose to drive the route purely to witness its striking scenery. There are many accommodation and dining options along the route.

Although many sections of the highway have been straightened and paved in the last few years, the Alaskan highway is still an adventure route. Many sections of the road are still narrow and curvy and watch out for the little red flags which signify gravel gaps. The highway should only be attempted with care and good weather conditions.

Hawaii

The state of Hawaii is comprised of six magnificent islands located in the central Pacific Ocean, southwest of the continental United States. Hawaii has it all; beautiful scenic drives, unmatched serenity and hospitable locals. Self-Drive Tours - Hawaii

Hana Highway in Maui

The Hana Highway is a 109km stretch of Hawaiian State Highways 36 and 360. The road is very winding and narrow and passes over 59 bridges and many curves which make the drive a little slower than others. Despite the time delay, this drive still remains one of the more popular routes due to the fact that around each bend the scenery is sure to surprise and delight. At the end of the Hana Highway are the famous Seven Sacred Pools which are a series of waterfalls and pools located inside the Haleakala National Park.

Waimea Canyon, Kauai

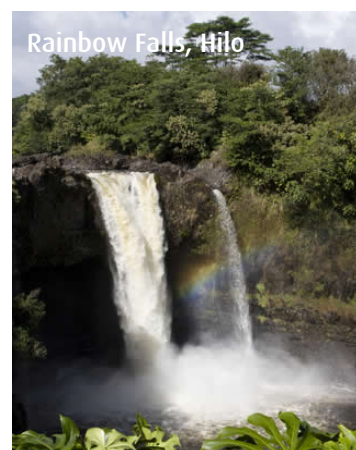

Waimea Canyon - Kauai

When visiting Kauai, be sure to take Highway 50 west from Hanapepe toward Waimea and visit Waimea Canyon (South West Kauai). Waimea Canyon Drive is on the right just past Mile Marker #23 and provides superlative views and lookouts of the gorge. It is advisable to fill up before starting the trip as there are no gas stations located along this road. Waimea Canyon is considered the Grand Canyon of the Pacific and measures approximately 16km long and up to 900m deep.

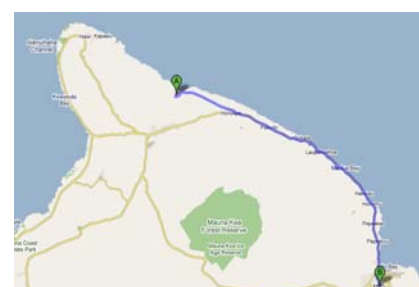

Hamakua Coast Drive - Big Island

When on Hawaii's Big Island, take a scenic drive along the famous Hamakua coast from Waipio to Hilo. The route follows along the Hawaii Belt Road, Highway 19 and is also known as the Hilo- Hamakua Heritage Coast. Be sure to take your camera as the 45 mile drive is host to spectacular views of the mountainside cliffs and magnificent waterfalls.

On arrival in Hilo there is a magnitude of things to see, the most spectacular of which is the Volcanoes National Park. If time permits, also visit the Akaka Falls, Rainbow Falls and the Hawaii Tropical Botanical Gardens.

Stay Healthy

The American health system is one of the world's best in terms of quality, but can be very expensive for those without insurance. Most Americans generally have health insurance, otherwise they face expensive hospital bills or depend on the government subsidised health plans. Your comprehensive travel insurance should cover any medical costs including medical evacuation, so make sure that your insurance covers you for the whole time you'll be away and be clear on what is not included, otherwise you might face enormous hospital bills.

In the event of an emergency, call 911 for an ambulance that will take you to the hospital emergency room (ER). Alternatively, walk in to the ER if it is a less urgent situation. For routine medical care, head to a walk-in clinic, where you'll receive regular medical care. Pharmacies and drug stores carry most prescriptions, however, as with most other medical care in the USA it can be expensive, so it's best to have your scripts filled before you go, and carry these medicines along with a letter from your GP explaining your medical needs.

Stay Safe

Despite a relatively high crime rate and occasional natural disasters, the USA remains a very safe place to travel. Most crime is concentrated in inner city neighbourhoods in areas that are not frequented by visitors, and is often gang or drug related.

In the US, petty theft would be the greatest concern to travellers. Don't make yourself a target by showing off expensive jewellery and cash in public. Keep your money and credit cards in a safe place. Try to avoid walking dark, deserted streets on your own. Withdraw money from ATMs during the day or in well-lit busy areas at night. Respect the local laws and customs. The same as travelling in any foreign country, your common sense is the most valuable possession you can have.

The USA is an enormous country with varied geography that can be affected by natural disasters. Hurricanes sometimes occur in the south from June through to November; tornadoes occur occasionally in the Great Plains region, earthquakes can occur in California and Alaska, and the extreme heat of midsummer in California has been known to produce wildfires. Keep in mind that these are very wide generalisations and are certainly not guaranteed to happen.

Police

Call 911 for Police, Ambulance or Fire Service.

Money Matters

Currency

US Dollar (USD $) = 100 cents (¢) Notes are in denominations of $100, $50, $20, $10, $5, $2 and $1. Coins are in denominations of $1 and 50 (half-dollar), 25 (quarter), 10 (dime), 5 (nickel) and 1 (penny) cents.

Currency Exchange

Available in airports, major banks and bureaux de change. Generally banks are open Mon-Fri 0830-1700.

ATMs

ATMs (automatic teller machines) are located in almost all towns and cities, especially in most banks and accept major credit and debit cards.

Credit & Debit Cards

Most credit and debit cards are accepted throughout the US, including Visa, MasterCard, American Express and Diners Club. It is a good idea to carry at least one major credit card while travelling in the US, since most hotels and car rental companies will require a credit card imprint. Contact your credit card company immediately if your credit card is lost or stolen.

Travellers Cheques

Travellers cheques are widely accepted in the USA, and in US Dollars. Cheques in other currency are generally not accepted. You will need a form of photo identification to use travellers cheques.

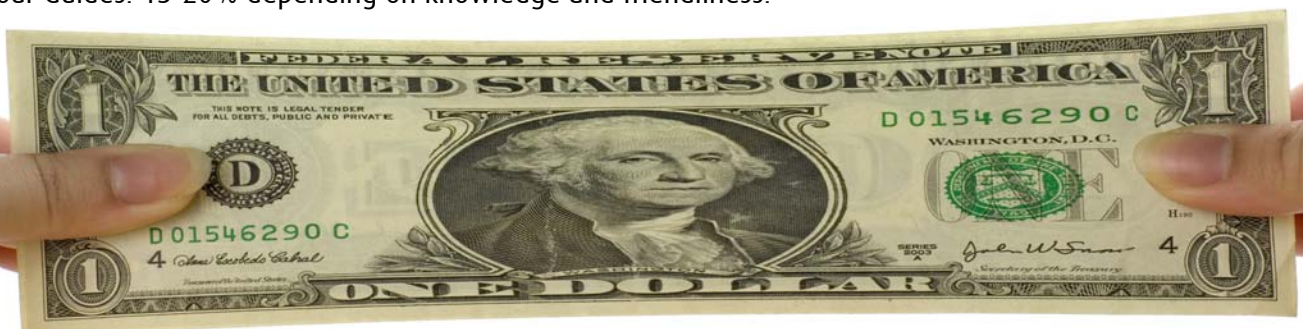

Tax

In the US, Sales Tax is added onto the price of goods and services that are purchased within the USA, and is displayed as a percentage of the sale price. Each state has its own rate of sales tax. Some states do not charge any state-wide sales tax, such as Alaska, Montana, Delaware, New Hampshire and Oregon; however local governments within these states may charge local taxes for things such as meals, room occupancies, car rentals and use of electricity.

Tipping

Tipping in the USA is standard practice and indeed often expected. There are different rules of thumb for different industries, so use this as a rough guide:

- Restaurants with table service: tip 15% of the bill, and for exceptional service 15-25%.
- Buffet restaurants: 10-15% of the bill.
- Fast food outlets: tipping is not expected however if the service has been fantastic then tips are appropriate into the tip jar.
- Bar Staff: $1-$2 per drink or 15-20% of the total bill.
- Bellman/Porter: $1-$2 per bag.
- Concierge: tipping is not expected but for exceptional service tipping is appreciated.
- Taxi Driver: 10-15% of fare.
- Valet Parkers: $2-$5 when collecting your car.
- Hairdresser/Manicurist: 10-20%.
- Tour Guides: 15-20% depending on knowledge and friendliness.
